

I want a computer to help me review my contracts

Whether you want to check a single contract before signing it or are a law firm that needs help with preparing a due diligence report for an entire data room, we offer pay-as-you-go and flat-fee options that allow you to harness the power of natural language parsing and machine learning to streamline your work.

Why it matters

Background. Manual contract review can prove both time-consuming and costly for businesses. Firms that automate their contract review processes are able to process multiple contracts in the time it would take a firm with a manual process to process a single contract. This saves them time and money and frees up internal resources for other tasks, giving them a competitive advantage over other firms. To remain competitive, firms with manual processes would be wise to adopt automated contract review processes with the help of our solution.

How we can help

- Our inhouse team combines legal professionals with years of “big law” experience and machine learning experts.
- Our proprietary data extraction technology, which uses both natural language parsing (NLP) and cutting-edge machine learning strategies, achieves accuracy rates as high as 97% on common legal text classification tasks. Contact us if you would like more information on these metrics.
- Use our issues spotting tool to sanity check a contract before signing it.
- Or upload hundreds of agreements and receive a due diligence report in Microsoft Word format, which you can edit further. We would be happy to set up a template with your branding as part of the setup process to minimize the number of edits you need to make before sending out the document.
- The documents can be in Microsoft Word or PDF format and can even be scans – lave it to our OCR tool to handle the conversion.

- If you disagree with the software's findings, you can edit the data points online and regenerate the summary or report before finalizing it.
- Call us if you want to license our machine learning models for your own purposes.
- As with all other parts of Scissero, by licensing our contract review solution, you can always upgrade to a full enterprise contract lifecycle management solution later.

Unparalleled domain knowledge

Products

- Scissero for contract authoring
- Scissero for NDAs
- Scissero for actionable business insights
- Scissero contract lifecycle management solution